

Legal disclaimer

Intellectual property

All the industrial and intellectual property rights of the Web site www.borges-baieo.com and its contents (texts, images, sounds, audio, video, designs, creativities, software) are the property of BORGES AGRICULTURAL & INDUSTRIAL EDIBLE OILS, S.A. or, if applicable, of third parties. The user may view all the elements, print them, copy them and store them in his/her hard disc or on any other physical means whenever it is exclusively for his/her personal and private use. Any use of the information contained herein including its marketing, distribution, as well as its modification, alteration and decompilation in any form is prohibited.

The user commits to make proper use of the contents and services (like for example of opinion or for the reader) offered by Borges in its web site and not to use it to commit fraud or illegal acts contrary to the good will or the legal system; to not cause damages on the physical and logical systems, of Borges or that of its suppliers or to third parties; and not to introduce or spread viruses in the computer network or any other physical or logical systems subject to cause the aforementioned damages.

Borges reserves the right to perform the modifications it considers appropriate in its web site without prior notice, being able to change, delete or add both the contents and services it provides as well as the form in which these are presented or located.

Borges will prosecute the non-compliance of the aforementioned conditions as well as any other improper use of the contents presented in its web site, asserting all the civil and criminal actions it is entitled to by law.

Borges only authorises citings of its contents in other web sites, with the treatment they consider. In the case of having a HyperText link to any of its pages, the user must acknowledge he is entering in the Borges web site and he must view the URL address in his browser.

With regard to the services available for the users via registration, all the information is kept under the strictest privacy according to the legislation currently in force. Borges complies with this law regarding the protection of personal data of its subscribers and keeps it in the most strict confidentiality in accordance with Spanish Organic Law 15/99 of 13th of December 1999 on Personal Data Protection (hereinafter, LOPD).

The user registered in the Borges web site may at any time have the right to access, rectify, cancel and revoke the consent for the assignment of his data in the terms stipulated in the aforementioned Law and other rules that govern it, and as stipulated in the LOPD.